

ABSTRACT

A system and method for interactive television over a network includes a 5 television, computer and at least one content provider connected to a network.
Television content is transmitted to a television. Interactive content corresponding to the television content is transmitted to the computer via a network. A viewer using a computer with a graphical interface is able to respond to the interactive content and transmit commands to the television via the network.

10

P. O. Box 111111, Dallas, TX 75211-1111